Correct Verb Usage: A verb is a word that expresses action or makes a statement. When the subject of a sentence is singular, the verb must also be singular. When the subject is plural, the verb must also be plural. This is referred to as subject-verb agreement.

The present tense is used mainly to express an action that happens regularly.

Example: The girl walks fast.

The verb walks is in the present tense. The subject and verb agree because they are both singular.

▶ Write the correct word from the word bank in each blank to complete the passage.

adventure	cultures	inches	travel
apartment	equator	informative writing	trip
border	foot	journey	tropics
climates	globe	traditions	weather patterns

Sometimes a home or apartment can seem crowded. Members of a family may want something new, like an adventure. It is fun to take a trip somewhere new. An international trip can teach people about different cultures and their traditions. It's fun to see all the signs too.

When checking out the globe, the tropics or a place near the equator can be a tempting journey for most. The first thing people need to cross a country's border is a passport.

Before people take a tour, they should check the weather patterns of the place they want to visit. There are travel magazines that include articles in which writers have done informative writing about many places. Climates can vary from one place to another. There can be a foot of snow in one place, whereas another place can have ten inches of rain.
